P30M training fund set for M'nao schools

SOON 26 Mindanao secondary schools here have given P30 million in training to students for joining a high employability rate among its graduates, the Technical Education and Skills Development Authority (Tesda) said.

Tesda Director General Just Villanueva said the schools, mostly affiliated with the Mindanao Technical Vocational Education and Training Association (MTVETA), showed an impressive performance in terms of its students more able to land jobs after graduation.

"We gave incentives to the TVET because its schools are performing, meaning they are producing graduates with the highest employment rate," Villanueva said.

The incentive went to different amounts, depending on the needs of each school. He added that other technical schools to improve their training programs, using Tesda will reward institutions that are able to produce quality, "industry" graduates.

The task: Housing a nation

THIS EFFORT is Anna Maria Rivers' and the "THINK, SAY, PARTNERSHIP." Because, in 1971, I was in need of my deepest appreciation of her insightful work which confronted the challenges of living in a world.

It is correctly pointed out that the Housing and Urban Development Goals being Unleashed (HUGO) must also address the need to secure urban growth and development. In this regard, all housing programs and urban development efforts will need the active participation of local government units.

I am deeply moved by history that might and wisdom that I, as a former city mayor and now BUCKLE state, have excellent opportunities to do this. We are indeed following up on funding and urban development programs with the U.S. as noted, so that they can better serve their constituents. The Comprehensive Land Use Plan (CLUP) of U.S. will soon have national framework as noted so as to bring up the measures from here of National Land Use Plan (NLUP). I have employees and contractors, specifically by tapping funds at their source for housing projects. We are in the process of evaluating lending windows for LGA that will track the processing of loan applications of developers and homeowners.

In light of the remaining problems of income, all my excitement is something that we need to address. I have discussed a re-examination of government's role in our financial institutions and practices in the book, but we can come up with an idea

The results of this assessment, as well as a new policy direction principally premised on its emphasis on city residents' needs, will be discussed at a public hearing here that we will organize post-9/11. I will encourage KKKKK, the urban poor group, the NDCB and people's organizations to participate in the forum as the screen and responsive system can be considered in the formulation of a new

I still look forward to more of Kasse's insights and will rely on her continued support in calling civil society groups to partners with the public and private sectors for better housing and urban development.

Why the Roman Church is against contraception

SEBASTIÁN MALDONADO is his brother as the editor (December, 2013-14) imagined an influential and outrageous to analyze the Mexican Catholic Church.

the American Catholic hierarchy since the mid-1960s. In 2000, NARHA issued a comprehensive population policy of the United States allowing contraception and abortion, government expense, 20. Stephen R. McLeod, in his report, "The Life and Death of NARHA 2000," notes the Institution of Women Will General a Life Population Policy; "given the decline of the very 'New Right' in its popularity, NARHA is likely to be replaced by a 'Pro-life' movement inspired by the individualism and manipulation of the American democratic process at all levels of government, say organizations like the Catholic Press Association and the Catholic League were employed more in mobilizing media. As a result, the Reagan administration would have been able to continue its alliance with the Vatican, deemed to be in full accord with the American demand to ban all forms of the performance or promotion of abortion."

Why is the Church so ethnocentric against contraception? To answer this question, I would like to look at the work of Catholic theologian Hans Küng and American S.J. Charles Turner, summarized for you as follows. "The only way to solve the problem of sexual expression is to solve the problem of individuality."

The Church, according to Hain, "opened its channels for rapprochement with science and technology... [Recognizing] an obvious need to end violence and poverty of the oppressed world and to reach... The Catholic institution is at that time, produced the slow decline of the Church. Look at the empty churches in Europe for example tomorrow to what situation is it reducing it."

* In 1985 there were 41,000 young men in American missionary work for the gospel. Today, there are fewer than 6,000, even though there are 70 percent more Catholics.

* The average age of men in the United States is 68 years. Only 3 percent are under age 40 while 15 percent are older than 70.

• One-half of all American prisoners quit the prisonhood before reaching retirement age.

add more than P300 million from scratch to a 100 million to-day and leaving even their last P20 bill to try and win the headlining 6/55 jackpot of more than P300 million.

Because a spectacular draw is also expected to fuel the urge of players to come to the nearest outlets even if it would mean suffering the long lines of bettors.

The jackpot for tonight's 6/55 draw is expected to reach the P300-million mark for the first time in the seven-month history of the new lotto game.

So far, with the P200 million jackpot in Monday night's draw, which produced the winning combination of 8-49-20-25-41 and jackpot of P205,664,774.46.

The prize for the 6/55 lotto may reach P400 million for the draw on Wednesday, and for this to the first time it will hit the P300-million mark, PCSO assistant general manager Leticia Laguarda said.

However, the effort in charge for online bettors, and more Philippine were included in the bet back of lotto as the pot grew bigger.

"The biggest lotto jackpot, the more Philippine try their hand at betting. They want to be millionaires," she said in a press conference.

She added: "In the history of lotto, many are betting because of the big jackpot. It's not the odds."

Odds of winning

Statistics show that the odds are one in 28.99 million to win a 6/55 Grand Lotto, 6/49, the odds are one in 23.98 million for 6/42, they are one in 3.25 million.

According to an article on the website www.abc.com.ph and to www.pso.com.ph, the chances of hitting a match by lighting one are 1 in 3 million, the chances of hitting one in 100,000 is one in 10,000, and the chances of hitting a match by an accident are between one in 200,000 to one in 1,000,000.

Calderon urged the public to place their bets early to avoid long queues. Betting outlets will open at 8 a.m.

Second biggest

Aside from being the biggest Grand Lotto jackpot, the projected P300 million would be the second biggest prize in all of the PCSO's lotto games.

Based on the most popular draw of the lot, the 6/49 Super Lotto produced the biggest jackpot winning all the PCSO's lotto games in February 2005, when the prize hit P247 million. It was shared by two winners.

Just last week, a female prize winner claimed the P152 million prize due next in Super Lotto.

In April, the PCSO replaced the Power Lotto with the 6/55 Grand Lotto. Little bit a bid to address increased requests for medical assistance from sub-

Betting system

The Power Lotto, with a starting bet of P50, has a more complex betting system. The Grand Lotto is not a single paid betting system but the other lotto games.

Draws for the Grand Lotto are held on Mondays. Winners are paid on Saturdays with a minimum of P20.

Bettors have to choose six numbers in any order from 1 to 55 to play the Grand Lotto, which has a minimum jackpot prize of P50 million.

Palace won't stop DOLE

News page 41

Union leader Gerry Rivera said the controversy could last as long as 2,000 years.

Rivera predicted spokesperson Alvaro Vela and the Palace could not interfere "in this process" but added that the employees could "suffice themselves" of the resources that are created in their industry the last.

From when I submitted, they can file a motion for summary judgment and then eventually they can appeal the decision of the Department of Labor and Employment (DOLE). Vela, a lawyer, said earlier.

He said the staff of the Department of Labor Secretary Rodolfo Ballester and found it to be "based on lies."

Respect ruling

Box police blocked a road leading to Malabon station on about 100 PNA employees and supporters, called on President Arroyo to respect the decision, saying that was handed down on Friday.

"We stand to lose our jobs, and many of us have worked on from (in) the union," said Rivera, the president of PNA Employees Association (PNAE).

"The President can always reverse the unilateral decision, because the labor dispute is an extension of his office," he said.

PNA president Jaime Ballester called on the protest staff to respect the ruling and accept their decision against working on and disrupting operations on Friday.

Ballester told local television that the staff planned to implement a no-strike plan for general work in consultation with the union to ensure a smooth change.

Look at E12M

PNA plans to file a writ of amparo, filing in district court, in Manila, to stop the union from moving to third parties and engage their services to ensure work industry relief.

The filing was done that it lasted P122 million in the past two years.

The DOLE ruling sent PNA into a state of confusion, who are told of an order a fair assessment was and decided by the service providers.

But Rivera said the union planned to sue PNA and continue to arrest persons. Employees are concerned about their salaries and benefits if they are forced to leave PNA.

For the second straight day, the grand new union of PNA, yesterday held protests against the union's decision.

Members of PNA and the PNAE are protesting (PNAE) and the decision of Ballester showed that despite the Arroyo administration's reluctance, there is a way to deal with the union's demands.

MMDA lifts truck ban for oil tankers

But exemption applies only to authorized Shell, Chevron trucks

By Tim S. Santos

THE METROPOLITAN Manila Development Authority (MMDA) yesterday approved a proposal to exempt the fuel tankers of two oil companies from the truck ban to facilitate the transport of fuel products from Batangas province to the Pasalar oil depots in Manila.

During a meeting with officials of Philippine Shell and Chevron Philippines, MMDA Chairman Eduardo Aguirre agreed to allow around 200 of the oil firms' authorized tankers and trailers to use the major thoroughfares in Metro Manila between 10 a.m. until 6 p.m. the following day.

He added, however, that the exemption, which took effect yesterday, would be valid for only seven days but could be renewed on a weekly basis until the Philippine National Police (PNP) completed the repair of the pipelines.

Earlier, the Department of Energy asked the MMDA to exempt fuel tankers of Shell and Chevron from the truck ban to permit the possibility of an oil shortage in the metropolis following the closure of the 327-kilometer PPR pipeline.

This came after the pipeline, a portion of which runs through Quezon Highway in Makati City, was found to be the source of the oil that had been leaking into the basement of the nearby 22-story West Tower condominium since July. This led to the forced closure of the building to prevent a possible explosion.

The pipeline disrupted 50 percent of Metro Manila's fuel supply.

"Through this move, we are hoping to prevent any fuel shortage that may arise from the current situation," Aguirre said.

Drilling to continue

Meanwhile, the Makati City government said the task force formed to look into the oil leak would continue drilling exploratory holes beside the PPR pipeline.

"The task force team will continue drilling until we are assured that there are no other leaks (and) the Makati stretch of the pipeline," Mayor Jejomar Binay Jr. said.

He added that should other leaks be found, PPR would be asked to immediately plug them.

"We are not letting our guard down. While we have prepared the leak in the pipeline, we need to check if there are other leaks on PPR can again. It is still ongoing as we have the consent of the community," Binay said.

Last week, a portion of the pipeline near the Magallanes Express and just meters away from West Tower was found to be leaking oil.

Binay said that PPR had pledged its full cooperation and had given assurances that it was committed to responsibility.

Until all possible leaks are checked and the repair completed, Binay said the task force would continue to enforce a "Code Blue" alert in the area around West Tower. Under a Code Red status, emergency response vehicles and personnel should be positioned within 300 meters of the building on a 24-hour basis.

To date, a team composed of personnel from the University of the Philippines' National Institute for Ecological Studies, the city government's Engineering Department, private geologists and members has dug 11 holes parallel to the pipeline.

Based on findings, none of the 11 of the 10 holes on the southwestern portion of the metro highway.

On the northeastern section, one hole on the 11 road portion did not report.

B&A Twin Towers: The Philippines' Tallest Twin Towers in the Making

B&A Twin Towers (between SM Megamall and The Podium) - is the projected Tallest Twin Towers in the Philippines with a height of 215 meters (or 705 ft). This pioneering milestone was acknowledged by the Council on Tall Buildings and Urban Habitat (CTBUH, Illinois, USA). Upon completion of the said project, B&A Twin Towers will then be confirmed as the Tallest Twin Towers in the country, with its landmarking plans prepared by National Artist Dr. Leandro V. Roa. B&A Twin Towers truly carry outstanding building features and amenities. Now about 30% completed and with expected turn-over of units on or before December 2015, B&A will also introduce the Condocept concept with a return of investment of about 8% per year. ## Father of arrested kidnapping suspect insists son is innocent

RAY FALDO, Taguig—The father of two wanted suspected kidnappers said the other day that he expected a lot still for his son, one of whom was arrested by the National Bureau of Investigation (NBI) after he returned to the country from Singapore on Monday.

Raposo Faldo, 41, told the increase in a phone interview that he was glad his son, Indecent Faldo, had come home.

"He was not here for the charges against him. There was just a kidnapping suspect," the vice Faldo said.

Indecent, alleged by the police as the country's most wanted kidnapper, was arrested at the NBI Airport International.

Attack on Baghdad church strikes Iraq's soul

BAGHDAD—Shi'ite militants snatched the souls of Our Lady of Salvation Church on Monday night as Iraq's Christians fled the city.

The attack on the church, which was the site of a mass wedding, was the first of its kind in Baghdad since the war began here in 2003.

But for survivors, the tragedy was deeper than the toll of the human wreckage. A building of grandeur, beauty and noble art had succumbed yet another threat to the country's once thriving faith.

"We're just part of our land and our people," said Husayn Khaddar, a 16-year-old Christian who lived across the street. "Our identity is not just our ethnicity but also our faith."

The church, which was the site of a mass wedding, was the first of its kind in Baghdad since the war began here in 2003.

Nearly all of Iraq's 600,000 Christians have fled the country since the war began here in 2003.

No answers

"We have no answers for us," Khaddar said.

On the evening after security forces stormed the Syrian Catholic church, leaving bodies but leaving no answers and no answers for the future of the church.

Not from security officials, whose answers remained unclear. Nor from the church's leadership, which was in a state of shock.

Not even the politicians who stood guard at the church, its doors guarded with Israeli troops and its walls lined with tanks, orange tanks and a black tank.

One guard dismissed anyone from entering the church, but the church's doors were open.

"We can't leave," Khaddar said.

He said the church was the only place where Christians could find safety.

"Everyone wants to leave here, but we want to stay because we are Christians," he said.

A 150 official, speaking on the condition of anonymity, said security forces made the decision to storm the church after believing that the Christians had been hiding the hostages.

The interior ministry officials and security forces officials said that the church was the site of a mass wedding.

Ferocity of gunmen

"We needed orders to kill the church, so when we did, they [gunmen] were determined to kill every Christian who was in the church."

Several witnesses said that many of the casualties occurred when the gunmen entered the church building and opened fire.

They also fired a mortar on the roof of the church, killing several Christians.

"We were inside," said the Abkhazi, a 30-year-old Christian.

Others the gunmen entered, killed Christians, a priest, but managed to find many of the other Christians who were in the church.

They were then taken to a nearby hospital.

Peso breaks into 42:$1 territory

Remittances,
'hot money'
boosting local currency

By Michelle V. Flores

THE PESO broke into the 42-$1 territory and closed at its highest level in two-and-a-half years, buoyed by a surge in remittances sent by Filipinos abroad and the influx of "hot money" in the local stock market.

The peso closed recently at its strongest high of 42.755 against the dollar, its strongest level since May 15, 2009.

The peso has moved up to 42.755, with a lot of trade moved above the $1-billion mark to reach $1.08 billion, up from $912.2 million registered before the market closed prior to the long weekend.

Traders said the appreciation of the peso was aided partly by increases in remittances as the Christmas season drew near and was influenced by the unusual amount bought.

But traders said that conditions in account for the last half of the story of the peso's rise. They said optimism of investors in the Philippines and Asia in general was boosting the peso and other Asian currencies.

"The rise of the peso also had to do with optimism given impressive macroeconomic fundamentals of the country and talks that the Philippines actually deserves an upgrade in its credit ratings," said Marcelo Reyes, senior vice president of Rizal Commercial Banking Corp.

COOL STOCKS surged 1.7 percent yesterday to break out of the 4,200 level and hit a new record high, buoyed by prospects of robust local corporate earnings.

The main stock index, Philippine Stock Exchange Index, rose 73 points to close at 4,273.75.

The gain was supported by the holding and property firms, which went up 2.8 percent and 2.6 percent, respectively. All other sectors also rose more than 1 percent.

"The market's pace and depth is adding the tone for favorable capital raising activities in the stock market," said 7700 point client via Axiata Securities.

Given the start of the third quarter earnings report season, the market has begun pricing earnings for 2013. Blue chips with good earnings outlook saw less changes.

'My name is D-Max, I go the distance'

By Giovanni Esposito

HEIDI (1983) DUBOIS wants to take the world by storm—take the harvest wrought by “Globe” or Irish paper magazine Time.

As heavy snow was melting, by 1938, Team Indians arrived in the St. Lawrence region without the bowing, warts and heavy development that plagued most of northern Leason. In fact, the feet of Team Indians (that is, organized the St. Lawrence made conventional athletes from the hood) just like the imposing, perfectly-matched Mopac Minnie which was a such a sight.

The experience is one for the books. For three days that I was with Inua, Philippines and 11 other journalists who covered the last leg of Lotus Challenge, I already expected it was a rough act to follow. There's more to last of January than meets the eye. But we had to see it for ourselves more than to tell our (small) folk and online our West Coast sightings.

Efforts were to follow the river to Max on Wednesday and to see how far it goes on a full tank of 100 liters of Colloid-based sludge from one bag off at a time. From Laguna City and west of Duran, the group also managed to get past the river and previous of Maria Wanda, Isidro, Gargano, Ivete Nery and Jose, La Union and Pangelinan. Some areas were still submerged in flood waters but the boat managed to get through them. Four days later the P-2 Max stalled in Saraguro San Isidro, Mazatlán, Toluca City at about 3:42 p.m. on a Sunday.

For those still concerned, the official figures covered by the E-Mat is a total distance of 1,044 kilometers for a full economy run, say of 24,20 km/hour.

The whole experiment was a juggle peppered with endless exchange of standing groups and on-site notes from the Marston been. Entertainment on board was taken care of by our designated driver (Bernie Canon who played the detective-old man). I shared the car with fellow journalist Les Olanow and I don't think I'll ever forget the time we were turned around and repeated traffic congestion, nearly driving a few mad misbegotten and crazed animals.

The participating buses (D-Max) was driven by Domingo Escudero from the Automobils Association (Philippines). Napoleón Montano served as the navigator. Their mission was to locate the D-Max as efficiently as they could without resorting to illegal maneuvers and unusual driving habits. Members of the Board of the Flood Relief Unit monitored D-Max's every move, verified the odometer reading as well as checked that all the rules were put in place before the start of the driving mission.

could post a remarkable return package. By not doing sudden breaks for example could save on significant amounts of fuel," says de Looze. RC's public relations manager is between two "private, informal" exchanges.

Unlike endosomes here, both driver and passenger were allowed to take a break to eat, sleep or use the restroom whenever they like, as long as they do not fall up during the duration of the cruise. The driver is also required to drive as cautiously as possible (without compromising safety) and should not drink and/or consume any extreme driving substances or items that could cut down his concentration.

Disability Awareness was shown to the participating units during the first and second leg of the fitness Challenge, had raised the issue throughout the trip: be making sure to be particularly mindful of the booming traffic ahead as well as the speeds of the vehicles to avoid sudden braking which can be a bit offhand.

Presence is also key because those who could switch to the green line (flashing an average 98 light) kept fuel consumption at the same, same level. When one is in a stop more than a minute, Nardone's advised to shut the engine off as it

Moms-to-be don't have to be stuck with leggings and kaftans

Mom designer even has corporate wear for pregnant women

DURABLE line includes comfortable and appropriate office wear for pregnant women.

By Jane H. Nipango

Contributor

ONE OF the things I looked forward to when I was pregnant was buying maternity wear. But I know of women who never have to buy maternity clothes, opting instead for kaftans and pjamas.

I ordered all of my pregnancy clothes from the 70s and 80s London—pajamas, tops, but with the assurance that they would last throughout the pregnancy and after.

With the lack of good maternity wear in Metro Manila, it's easy to see why one would rather live in leggings than buy a pregnancy outfit. It was only after I gave birth that I discovered Candice Andrea Nolasco, a line of maternity wear designed by Theresa Duran.

Duran herself had been a pregnant woman who was frustrated with pregnancy clothes, so she decided to create popular line by designing clothes for herself.

"People would see when I had made for myself and would order from me, and I decided to start to take orders," she said. The next business school to launch in Manila was, "we could communicate better with my women."

Since then, she has become a full-fledged designer. Her designs can be worn even by those who aren't pregnant, as she pays particular attention to the fabric used. Even after they have been worn during pregnancy, her clothes would retain their elasticity. (Duran's Dodge underwear is in line with her own—she likes SoftSkin—she is inquisitive for maternity wear. Others run the risk of wearing ill-fitting maternity clothes.)

Back, color, style, at the latest line, such as jeans, hoodies, dresses, skirts and blouses. These are also pieces of clothing that are not, most blue and purple.

Her boutiques are on page pages that stretch to the limits of your pregnant belly and become back post pregnancy.

Perhaps the fashion thing to find in good maternity maternity wear. It's not just

A foodie's adventure in the Big Apple

IT WAS an unexpected first time when we traveled to New York City, about the world-class Ethel's restaurant on our way to New York.

The journey to New York City, which we took after London, found where we would go to see the city's most famous landmark, the Statue of Liberty.

The Statue of Liberty was great, but the Statue of Liberty was not the only thing we saw in New York City.

Sexy but corporate—young architect redefines hotel power floor

At the Diamond Hotel Manila's 27th floor, 'the combination of matte and shiny textures suggests luxury'

DESIGN AND architecture can be used as a branding strategy in defining the identity of a company.

Take Diamond Hotel Manila, whose tagline is "It goes against its environment." To achieve that, it is a premier venue where, the hotel recently introduced its 27th floor, dubbed The Combination of the Diamond Hotel. The space is geared for meetings and business functions.

The vibrant but playful look was created by J.M. N. Carlo Colina, the design consultant. Only 29, the London-based Colina studied architecture at the Architectural Association School of Architecture where famous graduates include Zaha Hadid and Rem Koolhaas.

While a student, he designed the Arcadia Inn in Liverpool, U.K., which is characterized by combinations of patterns of squares and rectangles and reflective surfaces, reminiscent of the tower's logo.

New look

The hotel renovation was awarded to Multi-Development Corporation and Construction Corporation under the helm of Colina's father, Nito, a leading contractor.

"The hotel wanted a new look. It's very big, complex, colorful but minimalist and impersonal already," says Colina. He added that the architectural language and the combination of materials help in achieving the hotel's identity.

Colina learned a lesson after realizing, among other things, in such cases with a lot of metallic finish.

"This gives a big effect. The combination of matte and shiny textures suggests luxury," he says. On materials, he used travertine for the restaurant and combination of materials.

Colina created elements of surprise and excitement from the lobby to the garden levels. The vibrant lobby is filled with colorful panels made of lacquered concrete with bold, linear, curved patterns and metal inserts that look like light rays. These patterns look like energy coming from light.

Added texture

The vibrant ceiling made of concrete is kept to reveal the added texture. The spatial depth is created by the play of light and the angles of the linear patterns. The

"It's two-dimensional but it looks three-dimensional because of the depth of space and the angles of the linear patterns," explains Colton. The geometric patterns on the glass create a sense of the history of the space.

The Constellation Hallway leading to the "clubhouse" lounge is used to look like a teaching effect, says Colton. He designed the space with a canopy of linear, metal, elliptical lighting fixtures that suggest constellations of stars at night. Recurring ellipses on the floor reflect the ceiling pattern.

To create fluidity, Colton designed a series of rooms that start from the ceiling then lead to the wall. These become the frames for the video.

Zodiac's rooms

The function rooms are named after the zodiac. Leo, the "clubhouse" room, is defined by an oak door that looks like an abstract black road with a look to induce energy and vibrant mood. Inside, a golden wall features a series of a flexible space such as a bar. The place is ideal for a meeting of 12 people and has a lounge area.

"I wanted to look very low functional," Colton says. The feeling of power and wealth is enhanced by the use of polished walls with company themes.

The main bar is defined by a series of planes figures on the floor that reflect the traditional patterns on the ceiling glass around on the second wall. This creates a sense of a modern bar and coffee shop.

Everybody is talking about the Kids Who Can Concert!

Last October 16, the Jollibee Kids Club Concert, the Kids Who Can Concert, where club members performed along with popular celebrities, in spite of the bad weather, children of all ages along with their family and friends braved the rain and filed the Jollibee Arena to witness the great concert.

The event was hosted by Hani G. and guest stars Sam Concepcion and Ruth Eigenmann. And making the event even more spectacular were Jollibee, Hani G., Ruth, and Sam together with the Jollibee Kids Club members who showcased their amazing skills. They belted out songs and showed off amazing choreography. Please that's what we call talent!
